

WE'RE LOOKING AT FLOWER POWER

Through a new prototype program, Walt Disney World, in cooperation with several other groups, is investigating the use of "flower power" to possibly meet our future energy needs. Flower power? Well, more like Hyacinth Power, we should say.

A prototype program to use the common Florida water hyacinth as a wastewater purifier and as a new source of energy and agricultural fertilizer, is under investigation by our Environmental Protection Department.

Kathy Shannon and Herman Lukz, Environmental Associates with our Environmental Protection Department, conduct field tests on water quality at a seven-million gallon effluent holding pond located just north of the Tree Farm. Under the proposed EPCOT experimental hyacinth program, similar ponds will be used to employ the aquatic weed as a "third stage" filtration system, after which the plants would be processed as an energy source and for other byproducts.

The project, if we decide to implement it, will demonstrate the use of the aquatic weed as a third stage filtration device for stripping nutrients from wastewater, producing fuel and fertilizer from the hyacinth crop.

In wastewater treatment, the first stage is to remove the large particles of sediment, then treat it to remove bacteria in the second stage, and finally, filter it. We are looking at the possibility of using living hyacinth in the third, or tertiary stage.

This plan is a direct evolution of initial feasibility studies pioneered by NASA and the Bay Saint Louis (Mississippi) National Space Technology Laboratories, according to Fred Harden, Manager of Environmental Protection Department.

The plan was discussed at our recent Future World Technology Conference, attended by representatives of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency, NASA, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Army Corps of Engineers, Florida Department of Natural Resources, the University of Arizona, the University of Florida, Florida Technological University, several large corporations, and Walt Disney Productions.

The Conference was one of a continuing series conducted in conjunction with planning for EPCOT.

The hyacinth filtration system, if proven practical, could reduce dramatically the cost of wastewater treatment for small communities and, at the same time, produce usable by-products, Fred explained.

While experiments involving the hyacinth are not new, this would be the "first total research and development effort to tie all elements together," he added.

In addition to wastewater treatment, researchers would concurrently investigate the practically of harvesting the enriched hyacinth to produce useful byproducts, such as methane gas, fertilizer, ethyl alcohol, or perhaps a high protein feedstock.

To demonstrate the new concept, the proposed project would include a small facility constructed on our property. Included would be special ponds for growing hyacinths under controlled conditions. Wastewater would be fed into the ponds at the initial rate of 100,000 gallons per day, which could be increased to one million gallons daily in a subsequent demonstration system.

Facilities would also be developed for harvesting the nutrient-saturated hyacinths and for extraction of various byproducts.

It is expected that the program would be jointly sponsored and funded by government and private industry.

According to Dr. John F. Gerber, Director of The Center for Environmental Programs in the Institute of Food and Agriculture at the University of Florida, who served as moderator for the Future World Technology Conference, the proposed project has tremendous potential for the State of Florida and could be helpful for underdeveloped countries of the world.

The idea is also of particular significance to Dr. Al P. Burkhalter, Coordinator for the Bureau of Aquatic Plant Research and Control for the Florida Department of Natural Resources. Aside from the filtration and product possibilities, he also sees help in reducing the spread of the hyacinth in Florida's waterways.

"The hyacinth is a real problem weed. It has no natural enemy. It grows heartily and can quickly and completely block a river or stream," he said.

By wider use of efficient tertiary (third stage) filtration devices, such as our proposed hyacinth system, the purer water returned to the stream systems would carry fewer nutrients to feed downstream hyacinth and other nuisance aquatic plants. Thus, such weeds can be retarded drastically for lack of food. "In effect, the hyacinth can help bring about its own demise," Dr. Burkhalter said.

Of particular significance for Florida is a study issued by Battelle Columbus Laboratories estimating a need for some $330 million for additional wastewater treatment systems over the next 25-years in rural Florida communities.

"According to the report [Battelle Columbus Laboratories], development of the hyacinth stripping system could cut that cost in half," Dr. Burkhalter added.

Consideration of the hyacinth project is one of many EPCOT-related programs proposed or underway at Walt Disney World. Others include our solar energy experiments at the Central Energy Plant and the use of electric and natural gas for powering many boats and land transportation systems.

A NAME IS A NAME . . . TAG?

Not every name you like being called is permissible on your name tag. Recently our Company policy on name tags was revised, so here it is regarding the use of "nicknames" on tags:

- All names on Company issued name tags shall be the person's full first, middle or last name, or a derivative of these names. (Example . . . William Michael Sullivan - Bill, Will, Sully or other derivations are acceptable.)

- Any deviation from the above must be approved in writing by the employee's divisional director. (Such as Buster, Skeet, Buddy, etc.)

- No decoration of Company name tags is permitted, with the exception of the employee's latest service award pin. (This should be placed so that it covers the Walt Disney World logo embossed on the name tag.)

Any questions you have should go to the Wardrobe Office, at extension 4661.

LETTERS

Donn Tatum, Chairman of the Board of Walt Disney Productions, received the following letter from a guest, and we felt you would like to share it.

Dear Sir:

My wife and I wish to thank you with all of our hearts for the pleasure Walt Disney brought to our son, Craig, 14 years of age. Craig had his first stroke at 2 years of age. His two idols were Mickey Mouse and Charlie Brown - along with all the charac- ters of Walt Disney and Charles Schulz. From 2 to 14, he had five strokes, he went from a boy who could walk and run (somewhat) to a wheelchair.

Three or four years ago, we took Craig to Disney World for the first time and, needless to say, he was thrilled to no end. We set aside a week's vacation every succeeding year for our trip to Disney World.

On our last trip, the week before Easter, Craig was in his wheelchair and the consideration shown to my family by everyone (we always stayed at the Polynesian Village) from the time we arrived was astounding, especially Captain Hook and the other characters. You can be proud of all of your employees, they truly represent everything Walt Disney stood for regarding children.

Craig then passed away this past June. I realize there are millions of kids visiting Disney World every year, but Craig was a Very Special Boy and Gave Love to Everyone he came in contact with. Walt Disney and Disney World will hold a very special place in our hearts the rest of our lives.

Sincerely,
With much love,

GOING GREEK AT COLLEGE?

If you are preparing for your first year at college this fall, why not stop a moment and take a look at sorority life on many Southern campuses. Desiree Schepers, a Seating Hostess at the Gulf Coast Room in the Contemporary Resort, told us that the reputation of our gourmet restaurant has traveled wide and far . . . in fact, just last week she received a phone call from a gentleman requesting a reservation. Now that's not unusual, but she was somewhat stunned when she asked where he was calling from and he said Hong Kong. And then to top that, he called back the next evening from Taiwan to move the reservation forward one night. The occasion? "Oh, it's our anniversary and I wanted to surprise my wife with dinner at Walt Disney World when we fly over." It must be nice!

MURPH'S SPORTS LINE

By: Thom Murphy, EYES & EARS Area Reporter

This past Tuesday, our eight-team softball field engaged for a decision in the 2nd Half Softball Tournament, with the results looking like this: Custodial, the first-half champs, beat Admissions 8-1; Theme Park Maintenance eliminated the former undefeated Liberty Square team 11-5; and the Superballers won a close game with the Fubars 7-4. Finally, Contemporary Services, after playing an earlier game that evening finishing off LBV Communities 12-4, punched out enough hits to beat Resorts 7-3.

Semi-final action the following night saw Theme Park Maintenance overwhelm last year's World-World Series Champions team, the Superballers, by a 16-4 final score, and Custodial defeated Contemporary Services 10-7. The Contemporary team had held Custodial to a 7-7 tie going into the top of the seventh inning, only to have Custodial break loose with two out and score three additional runs.

The finals followed the next evening, matching Custodial and Theme Park Maintenance. And what a game . . . Custodial sped to a 5-0 lead, only to have Theme Park battle back with five runs in the bottom of the third inning to even the scoreboard. From this point on, Custodial's slick fielding and timely hits, coupled with several defensive breakdowns by Theme

There are only 30 seats available at $17 per person (which includes bait, tackle, and a SUPER time!), so hurry. Bring your own lunch and beverage. Sign ups are going on in Cast Activities now, but hurry . . . all reservations and payments must be in by August 31!

Slugging it out in the softball finals, Theme Park Maintenance's Rod Arnold puts one out in center field while Custodial's catcher, Gabriel Alexander, and umpire Jim Steelman of the American Softball Association, look on.

Park, led to a final 13-6 victory for Custodial. At the season's conclusion, Custodial had chalked up both 1st and 2nd Half Tournament championships.

On Saturday evening, the two second place teams, Theme Park Maintenance and Resorts, got together to play a best two out of three series to decide Custodial's opponent in the World-World Series. Game number one was Resorts 7 and Theme Park 3 and game two was Theme Park 3 and Resorts 1. By mutual agreement on both sides, a third contest was begun to decide the winner. Resorts immediately jumped off to a five-run lead in the first inning on six singles and a triple. Theme Park bounced back with one run in the second, and two runs in both the fourth and fifth innings to tie the game 5-5.

Theme Park then scored what proved to be the winning run in the bottom of the sixth, and retired the Resort team in the seventh to win 6-5.

At this writing, Custodial and The Theme Park Maintenance will be pitted against one another in our World-World Series, a best three out of five affair which traditionally ends the season of "Softball 76" at Walt Disney World

CANOE RACE CHAMPIONSHIPS

Divisional championships for the five remaining fastest canoe teams in Men's, Women's and Mixed categories will be held at the following times . . . Then on Thursday, August 19, the three divisional champs will meet for the Walt Disney World Championship.

A recent survey of practice times shows several teams stroking the 1,000 meter Rivers of America with times coming in at mere seconds above last year's race finals! This promises a real battle in the finals this year, with an almost guaranteed new set of final times being set.

A total of 73 teams have entered this year's early morning "grunt and groan" event, with the Mixed category being the most popular at 38 entries.

SUMMER BASKETBALL RESULTS

The winners of both the 1st and 2nd-Half Tournaments is the Custodial team.
